PHYS 209 Seminar in Biomedical Physics (1)

A seminar course exposing students to cutting-edge biomedical physics research. Research seminars by biomedical researchers will be combined with the reading and discussion of primary literature. Emphasis will be placed on developing skills in critical analysis and technical communication. This course serves as a capstone experience for students pursuing a minor in biomedical physics.

Prerequisite(s): Declared Biomedical Physics Minor

Course Frequency: Occasional